Mr. Fish

Notable & Quotable
James Angleton,
Israel and JFK

Jefferson Morley: One of the things that is withheld and is in the JFK collection right now is the testimony of James Angleton in 1975 before the Church Committee about the Israeli nuclear program. This is a 113-page document, and it's heavily redacted to this day, and the redactions clearly pertain to Israel.

Now, is this an assassination related document? Absolutely. The Assassination Records Review Board said this is a assassination related document. It meets the statutory definition. If the President (Trump) and this effort (to declassify the JFK files) are serious, that testimony will be declassified.

Angleton controlled the Oswald file on the one hand and he was a contact with the Israelis on the other. So it belongs in the public record. That's another test if this is a serious effort.

Tucker Carlson: Why in the world would the Dimona project, the Israeli nuclear program, which has never officially been admitted by anybody but is real – what would that conceivably have to do with the assassination of JFK?

Morley: It relates to what Angleton was doing in 1963. There were profound conflicts between Israel and the Kennedy White House over the nuclear program. Kennedy was pressing for on site inspections, which the Israelis resisted, because on site inspections would have realized that they had a bomb making program.

This was a real bone of contention between the Israeli government and the Kennedy administration in the summer of 1963 at a time when Angleton controlled the Oswald file. So just the juxtaposition of those facts means that everything about it should be on the public record. . . .
